

U of A Chorus Sings, Draws JFK's Praise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The University of Arkansas mixed chorus sang for President Kennedy today and won his praise.

The 36-voice chorus, directed by Richard Brother, recently won first place in an international competition in Italy.

After listening to palestrina's "Prigio Della Beata Virgine" Kennedy told members of the chorus the people of Arkansas must be proud of them "as I am."

Kennedy closed his remarks by asking the singers whether they would like to tour the White House.

He got a vigorous affirmative reply, particularly from the female members of the group.

The chorus and its director were introduced to the President by Sen. J. William Fulbright, other members of the Arkansas congressional delegation were on hand.

Kennedy led the applause after the performance.

Fulbright said the work of the chorus is evidence of the great undiscovered talent in this country.

He said he hopes when the proposed National Cultural Center is built in Washington it will not be necessary for artists to go abroad to win acclaim.

Kennedy agreed with Fulbright, saying competition could be held at such a national center with the winner to go abroad.

But in some ways, Kennedy added, the way the Arkansas chorus did it was more attractive and more informal.

The Arkansas chorus went to Europe on a do-it-yourself basis after being turned down by a State Department screening agency as not good enough to warrant federal assistance.

The chorus sang at the colonnade outside the President's office.

Kennedy shook hands with most of them. He also shook hands with 7-year-old Christopher Brothers, the directors son, who made the trip to Italy with his father.

The chorus will sing again at 5 p.m. (EDT) in the new Senate office building auditorium.

East Germans Shoot, Kill Refugee

By JOHN FIEHN

BERLIN (AP)—Police of the East German Communist regime today shot and apparently killed a refugee caught in the barbed wire atop the Berlin wall.

The victim, a man who looked about 50, was fired on as the city tensely waited to know whether the Russians would again defy Western orders for Soviet armored cars to take a shorter route in carrying guards to the Russian war memorial in the British sector. They have been told to stay away from the Americans' Checkpoint Charlie.

Witnesses reported the newest victim of the wall tried to climb over where it borders a cemetery. Some said two East German police sought to stop him.

When he reached the top, he became entangled in the wire. Three shots were heard, apparently from nearby railroad property occupied by East German police. The man fell back into the East sector, his feet still caught in the wire. In about 10 minutes he was taken away.

His dark-visored cap was picked up on the Western side. It had two bullet holes in it.

A crowd of about 100 quickly gathered. Windows were thrown open in a hospital on the West Berlin side of the street. There were cries of "murderers."

The incident came as the U.S. command in Berlin appeared ready for a showdown with the Russians on the outing of Soviet armor moving to and from the memorial. The shooting occurred nearly two miles north of Checkpoint Charlie. It recalled the slaying of Peter Fechter, 38, at the wall only about 200 yards north of that checkpoint Aug. 17. The Fechter killing led West Berliners to stone Soviet guard details, ordinarily carried in buses. The Russians then switched to armored cars.

Tax Revision Bill Resumes in Senate

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate resumes its struggle over President Kennedy's battered tax revision bill today with more than 80 amendments still pending.

Leaders hoped many of these would be dropped by their sponsors. But they knew that several major floor fights still remained before the Senate worked through the 392-page measure.

Originally the leaders hoped to pass the bill by last Friday, but five straight night sessions failed to turn the trick. Now they have set a goal of next Friday.

The delay is holding up another top priority bill—the Foreign Trade Expansion Act. The Senate Finance Committee started to vote on that late last month but had to put it aside so its members could be on hand for the tax debate.

So far, Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., floor manager for the tax revision bill, has been able to beat off all amendments which he opposed.

However, battles remained to be fought on tightening the expense account section, on knocking out a provision which makes lobbying expenses deductible, and on efforts to increase taxes on foreign earnings on American corporations.

Senators also had amendments pending on such diverse subjects as a reduction in the oil and gas depletion allowance, reduction of top bracket income tax rates, repeal of the 4 per cent credit allowed on stock dividend income, allowance of a $600 deduction for college expenses of a child, and allowance of a tax credit for political contributions.

RAMSTEIN, Germany (AP)—U.S. Air Force planes took off at hourly intervals today to deliver aid to earthquake stricken Iran. They include 25 C130 transports. About 400 tons of blankets, tents, and medical supplies were scheduled to be flown from here. The C130s take 11 hours to reach Tehran, 2,500 miles away.

Bolivia Walks Out of Latin Organization

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bolivia has walked out of the Organization of American States—at least temporarily—because of a wrangle with Chile over use of Lauca River water.

In a note to OAS Council President Albert Zulueta Angel Monday, Bolivia said it was suspending "its participation in the OAS Council and all of the organizations of the system" and blamed inaction over the river dispute.

Bolivia also announced its president, Victor Paz Estenssoro, has postponed an official visit to the United States because the sale of surplus tin from American emergency stockpiles "is endangering the Bolivian economy."

Foreign Minister Jose Fellman Belaride said no new date had been set for a visit to the United States. Paz Estenssoro had been scheduled to come here late this month.

The note to the OAS said Bolivia "hopes that her empty seat will remind sister nations of the continent that she continues to await a just solution of the matter of the Lauca River."

The OAS, after length discussion of the matter, adopted a resolution on May 24 calling for peaceful settlement of the dispute.

The matter arose when Chile began diverting water from the Lauca for an irrigation project. The river originates in Chile and flows across the border into Bolivia, ending in Copaza Lake. Bolivia charged that diversion was affecting the climate and hindering development of agriculture and cattle raising in the arid Copaza Lake region.

Chile denied this, and said it was within its rights in diverting water from the Lauca.

Ben Bella's Army Licking Resistance

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

ALGIERS (AP)—Ahmed Ben Bella's army brushed aside token rebel resistance and rolled on toward Algiers today. Guerrilla defenders concentrated their out-gunned forces in the suburbs, vowing to hold the capital.

Advance elements of Ben Bella's 30,000 regulars were reported in the Medea area, 55 miles south of Algiers. Another column bypassed Oranville and was reported less than 100 miles southwest of the city on the Oran-Algiers highway.

Some retreating guerrillas blew up bridges and barricaded mountain passes in an attempt to slow the Ben Bella thrust. Mostly the guerrillas fled or surrendered after brief encounters with the regular troops commanded by Col. Houari Boumedienne, the army chief of staff.

Civilian crowds organized by the guerrillas to block the invading soldiers' routes often cheered the regular army instead.

The small guerrilla forces equipped with rifles and light machine guns were no match for the army with its Communist bloc artillery, mortars and heavy machine guns.

Reports indicate about 10 persons have been killed and 30 wounded in the few skirmishes since Ben Bella's troops began their advance Saturday to wrest Algiers and the surrounding countryside from the control of the rebellious guerrillas of Wilaya (zone) No. 4.

Ben Bella told newsmen in Oran that his forces were under orders to avoid bloodshed where possible and that his advancing troops had "their rifles on their shoulders and their cannon covered with tarpaulins."

He said the Political Bureau, Algeria's de facto civilian government, is determined to re-establish its authority in Algiers, taken by the Wilaya 4 guerrilla command on Aug. 25.

Florida Residents Urged to Help

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Health authorities are urging residents not to panic because of Pinellas County's encephalitis epidemic, but to cooperate in removing breeding places for disease-bearing mosquitoes.

School authorities went ahead with plans to start fall classes today. Seventeen new cases of encephalitis—sleeping sickness—were diagnosed during the past two days, health official said, bringing the county's total to 137. Ten deaths attributed to the disease have been reported in the county, and another four deaths elsewhere.

U. S. Is Ready for Showdown Over Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Three Soviet armored cars submitted to orders from Western commandants today and took a short route into West Berlin with their guards for the Russian war memorial in the British sector.

By JOHN FIEHN

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. command in Berlin appeared ready today for a showdown with the Russians on Western demands that Soviet armored units take a shorter route to the Soviet War Memorial in West Berlin.

U.S. soldiers in battle dress took up positions at the Sonnenallee, Oberbaum Bridge and Heinrich Heine Strasse crossing points in the Berlin wall. The crossings are normally manned by West Berlin police.

At Checkpoint Charlie, the fourth and principal U.S. sector crossing, U.S. soldiers were not wearing their battle gear. However, the 20-man military police detachment normally stationed there had fighting equipment on hand.

West Berlin police erected barricades at Sandkrug Bridge in the British sector, one of two crossing points the Allies told the Russians to use in changing their guard at the war memorial. The other is the Brandenburg Gate.

The Sandkrug barricades had gates wide enough to allow heavy trucks and buses to pass through.

A small detachment of American soldiers also was stationed at Glienicke Bridge at the southwestern tip of the U.S. sector. The bridge is used as a crossing by members of U.S., British and French military missions attached to the Soviet headquarters at Potsdam in East Germany.

Eyewitnesses reported seven jeeploads of U.S. soldiers were deployed at the Kieblatt cloverleaf, where the autobahn superhighway leaves West Berlin on its way to West Germany.

U.S. spokesmen would not explain the new measures, but it seemed likely that the Allies were preparing to put into effect their order that the Soviets stop using Checkpoint Charlie during their daily afternoon changing of the guard.

The Western Allies first told the Russians to stop using Checkpoint Charlie Sunday. Western spokesmen said the order had a deadline but refused to say when or what would happen if the Russians refused to comply. The Americans said the purpose was to reduce the possibility of attacks by West Berliners on the Soviet vehicles.

Cleanup Starts in Iran, Death Toll 4,000

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

DAN-ESFAHAN, Iran (AP)—Weeping workers dug body after body today from the ruins left by Iran's worst earthquakes in 70 years and hurried them into graves to counter the threat of epidemics.

The official death toll from the tremors that devastated about 100 villages in northwest Iran Saturday night rose to "more than 4,000." The Iranian Red Cross said the dead might total 10,000 and that the number of injured were "beyond counting."

The Western world's governments and relief organizations assembled aid shipments for air transport. U.S. forces in Germany mounted an airlift to transport 10,000 blankets, 1,000 tents and a 100-bed hospital unit.

Thousands of soldiers and volunteers dug the bodies in the wreckage of mud huts scattered over 23,000 square miles of northwest Iran. Trains, buses and trucks took the injured to overflowing district hospitals and to Tehran.

The three savage quakes hit hardest in the oasis village of Dan-Esfahan, home of 4,200 persons 150 miles northwest of Tehran. Only 700 persons were left alive.

Women in veils waited as weeping workers dug the mangled bodies from the ruins, wrapped them in white cloth and carried them on doors and shop signs to hillside graves.

As the sun climbed in the sky and the temperature climbed toward 100, the stench of death became almost unbearable. A barefoot man trudged past with the corpse of his baby son balanced on his head.

"What shall I do, God, what shall I do?" wailed a boy, his face stained with dried blood, as he banged his head in the dust beside the bodies of his father, mother and seven brothers and sisters.

The Board also approved the appointment of chairmen of several of the subcommittees and as soon as these appointments are completed, their names and the different committees will be released.

A meeting to finalize the drive efforts will be held on Thursday evening September 20. It was announced that the drive would start on October 1, 1962, and continue for the entire months of October or until such time that all work has been completed.

All-Time High Traffic Death Toll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic 495
Boating 22
Drowning 57
Miscellaneous 94
Total 669

Traffic accidents across the nation during the Labor Day holiday killed at least 495 persons, a record for the three-day weekend.

The count at midnight (local time), at the end of the 78-hour holiday period which started at 6 p.m. Friday, showed 484 persons lost their lives in motor vehicle accidents. There was a rash of multiple death crashes during the summer season's final long weekend holiday.

In addition to the heavy traffic toll, 22 persons were killed in boating accidents, 54 drowned and 91 lost their lives in miscellaneous mishaps.

The traffic toll surpassed the previous record of 461 for a Labor Day weekend, set in 1951. The overall total also threatened the record for the holiday which is 658, also recorded in 1951.

The National Safety Council said belated reports could boost the final traffic count to 500. Before the start of the holiday the council had estimated that between 410 and 490 persons could be killed on the highways. However, it said that caution on the part of motorists could hold the figure to 410.

As the death rate held steady to a pace of more than six fatalities an hour on Sunday and Monday, the council expressed fear the final toll might reach 500. Millions of motorists jammed the highways Monday on homeward trips.

The average number of traffic deaths for a late summer 78-hour non-holiday weekend, the council said, is 330. An Associated Press survey of accident deaths during the 78-hour non-holiday period from 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 17 to midnight Aug. 20, showed 256 killed in traffic, 43 in boating accidents, 54 drownings and 85 miscellaneous fatalities for a total of 438.

Soviet Note to U. S. Renews Early Warning

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government charged today that another U.S. U2 plane has violated the Soviet frontier. It warned of retaliatory measures if this happens again.

The United States conceded that a U2 may have violated Soviet territory but said this was unintentional if so. It said the pilot, flying near the area in question, encountered severe winds and may have overflown his course.

The United States said it is holding to a policy of making no U2 flights over Soviet territory.

The U.S. response was forwarded to Moscow within a few hours after the Soviet protest was delivered.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A spokesman said today the Defense Department is looking into the Russian complaint that a U.S. U2 reconnaissance plane flew over Sakhalin Island last Thursday.

"We are at the present time unaware of this situation, but it is under investigation," the spokesman said when asked about the Soviet charge.

He was asked if U2 flights over Soviet territory continue to be forbidden under the policy set up after the Francis Gary Powers case.

"As far as I know," he replied. "The White House had no immediate comment on the Soviet protest."

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union charged in a note today that a United States U2 reconnaissance plane violated Soviet borders in the Far Eastern area on Aug. 30.

The note to the United States said the U2 plane "overflew the territory and territorial waters of the U.S.S.R. for nine minutes."

The note, as reported by the Soviet news agency Tass, declared: "The government of the Soviet Union also states that its earlier warning about the taking of proper retaliatory measures, including the rendering harmless of war bases, used against the U.S.S.R., remains in force."

The Soviet Union "reserves the right to raise the question of aggressive actions by the United States at the General Assembly of the United Nations," the protest said.

The Russians claimed the U2 plane flew over Sakhalin Island in the Pacific.

The note demanded that American authorities "rigorously punish the persons responsible for organizing this flight of an American warplane, and take measures at once to prevent any future violations of Soviet airspace."

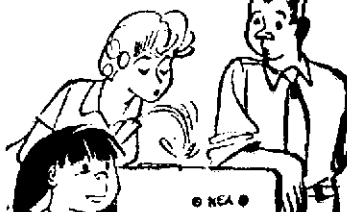

"If this is not done," the note says, "the Soviet government will take measures it will deem necessary to safeguard the security of its frontiers in the event of new violations."

Hope Mariner 2 Antenna Is Toward Earth

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Harried scientists, temporarily stymied in plans to point Venus space craft Mariner 2 nearer its destination, tried today to determine whether its antenna is aimed at the earth or moon.

They had hoped it had a lock on the earth.

The delicate mid-course correction of the 447-pound craft's route can still be made, the scientists said, but will take a while longer.

Project officials were just about to fire a small rocket motor on the flying space laboratory pointing it nearer its destination Monday when the question popped up.

They postponed the critical radio message to Mariner 2 ordering the adjustment for at least 24 hours.

Before that, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here—designer of the craft and its caretaker during flight—had announced the yard-wide antenna was properly aimed at earth.

Data radioed back from the craft as it plunged away from earth at more than 6,000 miles per hour indicated the antenna had swung out as ordered to its planned position Sunday.

The directional change of Mariner 2 is designed to bring it within 10,000 miles of the mystery planet next December. Without the maneuver, it will miss by more than 200,000 miles.

The special antenna, with a range of 64 million miles, is needed to pick up the direction-changing signal from earth.

The scientists say they can either try to point it again at earth or leave it possibly locked on the moon.

"However, in order to execute the mid-course maneuver with greater assurance of success," a statement from the propulsion lab said, "it is necessary to know whether it is the moon or earth the sensor is looking at."

The course change may be attempted any time within the next few days, the lab added.

violations."

The Tass report said the note "recalled the grave international complications brought about" by Francis Gary Powers' espionage flight in a U2 spy plane in May 1960.

Powers was shot down over the Soviet Union May 1, 1960. He was sentenced to 30 years by a special Soviet court. He was released Oct. 2, 1961 in a swap for Soviet master spy Rudolph Abel.

After the incident President Eisenhower announced that U2 flights had been discontinued over Soviet territory. President Kennedy later affirmed the pledge.

Tass said the Soviet note raised this question: "What is this—revival of the old piratic practice of the previous (Eisenhower) government, condemned by President Kennedy himself, or a provocative act of the hellicose U.S. quarters which would like to create a new international conflict, like the conflict of 1960, and to aggravate the situation to the maximum?"

"The U.S. government must furnish a clear answer to this question."

There had been speculation that the state's highest tribunal would open with a prayer, possibly as a result of the U.S. Supreme Court's recent controversial prayer ruling.

The state Supreme Court opened with the usual brief statement of the bailiff and got down to business.

The Arkansas Supreme Court does not usually open with a prayer.

Alderman Issue Before Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Supreme Court has been asked to reverse a Greene County Circuit Court ruling that George Textor won in a race for alderman by 1,058 votes to 1,055 for Robert Hansel Harris.

The supreme court heard oral arguments in the case Monday as it opened a new term after summer vacation.

The Greene County Democratic Central Committee certified the results of the primary at 1,070 votes for Textor to 1,069 votes for Harris.

Harris said fraud and irregularities existed in the election and asked for a recount, which was denied.

Harris then filed suit in Greene County Circuit Court saying 21 illegal votes were cast for Textor and Textor challenged the legality of 16 votes for Hais.

Circuit Judge Edward Maddox ruled that not enough evidence had been presented to warrant a recount of the box in question and determined Textor the winner, 1,058 votes to 1,055. Harris appealed to the Supreme Court.

superintendent had told the Negroes that pupil assignments were made during the spring and could not be changed.

The Negro leader indicated that little time will be lost in entering an integration court suit.

Before arrival of the Negroes, school employees washed from the front window an amateurishly painted sign reading, "No Niggers, Please."

The Klan dragon told the Monday night rally that Negro students can be kept from white schools.

Police on Hand to Keep Down Riots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The first major parochial school desegregation in the South begins today in the New Orleans, La., and Atlanta, Ga., areas where thousands of youngsters are starting fall classes after the long Labor Day weekend.

Our Lady of Good Harbor parochial school reopens at Buras, La., 80 miles south of New Orleans, as the FBI continues a probe of threatened violence there. Segregationists say the five Negroes who attended the previously all-white school Wednesday will not return.

Elsewhere, Memphis, Tenn., embarks on its second year of desegregated school classes, and two Negro leaders say they will attempt to lower racial barriers at schools in Albany, Ga., and Baton Rouge, La.

W. G. Anderson, president of the anti-segregation Albany Movement, said he would take his daughter, Laurita, 14, to Albany High as the latest in a long series of desegregation attempts in that southwest Georgia racial trouble spot. Other Negroes may join the move.

Police stationed mobile units within two blocks of each of the Roman Catholic schools in New Orleans and six outlying parishes.

The Archdiocese of New Orleans declined to give in advance the number of Negroes to attend formerly all-white schools or to name the schools.

The desegregation order was handed down last spring by Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel for the 158 elementary and high parochial schools.

Archbishop Paul J. Hallinan directed the desegregation move in the archdiocese which includes the Georgia capital and a 71-county area in the northern part of the state. It affected 18 elementary and five high parochial schools.

Dies of Injuries MONTICELLO, Ark. (AP)—Wilbur G. Myhand, a 73-year-old farmer who was trampled last week by a cow on his farm six miles north of here, died Monday on injuries. The elderly farmer had suffered a crushed chest and other injuries.

September 4, 1962

Dear Driver:

Today my 8 year old son started another round of schooling. At 8:00 o'clock this morning he swaggered out the front door with the world in his pocket. His well worn ball cap was set at a cocky angle. His ball glove was on one hand and one lone book was juggling under his arm. What do you think was on his mind? "See you, Mom," he called, "hope I get to bat before the bell rings". Then he disappeared around the corner. My words of caution, "watch out for cars", barely caught up with him.

For 8 years his father and I have guarded his safety as best we could. When he started crawling, I put safety devices on the electric outlets. When he walked, up went scissors, pointed objects and all items poisonous if taken internally. To insure safe summer play for him in his early years we built a poor but adequate fence around the back yard.

We taught him safety as best we could . . . as well as you can teach a child. We have told him never to cross a street except at an intersection and then to wait until the light was right and the first car had stopped. But you know how children are. They can be watching when they start across but he flying a jet plane over the Pacific by the time they reach the middle. They can forget streets ever exist and dart from behind a parked automobile for no reason at all.

When my son walks out our front door now, his safety is in your hands . . . in YOUR hands. You wouldn't hurt him, would you? Please drive carefully. You can never guess what a child will do.

Please don't run over my little boy.

Pleadingly,
A Loving Mother

Should Widower Wait or Marry?

By HELEN WORDEN ESKINE

Dear Helen: My wife died last year after a long illness. We were devoted. I spent every evening at her bedside out of love. Before she went we had one last talk, which despite her weakness, she insisted upon. Please, she begged; never feel her hand upon me from beyond the grave. In other words, if I wanted to marry again, marry! The thought then was abhorrent.

Now, I wonder. Our three children are still small. I am in my early thirties and even though friends are kind and we have the same faithful old housekeeper, the home without a wife and mother is like a ship without a rudder. So am I.

My job, a responsible one in this community, requires strict adherence to social and public opinion. How long after the loss of my wife must I wait before dating? Though involved in many outside activities, I have purposefully refrained from glancing even a first time at another girl. In view of that last talk with my dear wife, would I be untrue to her memory if I started seeing other women? —Wondering Widower

Dear Wondering: One year is the conventional length of time for a widower or widow to wait before remarrying. But it all depends upon the circumstances surrounding those involved. Henry J. Kaiser, the industrialist, remarried within a short while after his first wife's death. She had been an invalid and wanted him to marry soon again. This seems to be your case. In any event nobody — except the petty-minded — will criticize you for dating other women now. Follow your heart.

Dear Helen: I have searched the libraries in vain for the Kinsey Report. Please tell me where I might find a copy? — Brenda, San Jose, Calif.

Dear Brenda: The two reports, "Sexual Behavior in The Human Male," and "Sexual Behavior in The Human Female," written by the late Alfred C. Kinsey, zoologist, in conjunction with W. B. Pomeroy, C. E. Martin and P. H. Gebhard he worked only on Female behavior) can be found in most public libraries throughout the country.

The trouble, according to a spokesman for the N.Y. Public Library, is that every six months or so, somebody filches the copy in circulation. Replacement takes time. So check again with your library.

Dear Helen: I'm a 17-year-old high school student deeply in love with the 62 year old sexton of our church. I am sure he returns my feelings for only last Sunday he invited me to climb the bell tower with him after church to take a look at and listen to the new carillon for which our congregation raised the money and recently had installed. Are the bells I hear premature? —Kay

Dear Kay: They most certainly are! Don't be trapped by your adolescent emotions or the sexton's May and December tunes. He's old enough to be your grandfather.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Eskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Teen-age Code."

Miss Lamour Is Back With No Sorong

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dorothy Lamour is back in town and wearing a muu-muu, of all things.

It seemed just like old times. Dolly was back in the South Seas, as reproduced on the Paramount lot. She looked as shapely and sultry as ever, but something was missing—the sarong.

Ah, who can forget Lamour swimming in the tropical lagoon in her gay sarong watched by a ship-wrecked sailor played by Ray Milland, Robert Preston or Sonny Tufts?

The Lamour sarong became a part of the national legend, along with Betty Grable's legs and Don Ameche's telephone.

When Dolly was hailed back to Paramount for her first Hollywood film in 10 years, she expected to be slipping back into the sarong. After all, it was another South Seas film called "Donovan's Reef," directed by her old pal from "Hurricane," John Ford.

"But when I got here, Mary Ford (the director's wife said she had bought some muu-muus in Hawaii and wanted me to wear them for sentimental reasons," said Dolly. "Nobody has said anything about a sarong."

Boutonnieres make fashion news for men this spring. They serve to brighten the newest suits which are dark in color with a minimum of pattern or luster.

He's wearing one version of the popular cloth hat. It's of houndstooth check tweed, with center crease, snap brim and wide self band.

53-Year-Old Body Again Identified

MARIANNA, Ark. (AP) — The mystery shrouding a body which has lain in a funeral home here for over half a century heightened Monday with conflicting possible identifications.

A Pine Bluff woman tentatively identified the embalmed body as that of W. M. Kerr of Pine Bluff who disappeared in 1909 at the age of 32.

And Joe Williams of Memphis, whose father owned the funeral home when the body was brought there in 1909, said it is Tommy Moon—a name previously thought to have been jokingly applied to it.

Norris Hodge, who currently owns the funeral home and who inherited the body, says he'll ask county authorities to make a positive identification.

Williams said the man worked for the Missouri Pacific Railroad and became sick with malaria and died. He went by the name of Tommy Moon, Williams said, and reports that the name derived from his being found on a moonlit night by a man named Tommy, are erroneous.

Mrs. I. V. Parker viewed the remains Monday and said it bore a resemblance to Kerr. But, she said, she was only 10 years old when Kerr disappeared.

The funeral home attempted to deed the body to the University of Arkansas Medical Center but was turned down.

Hodge had planned to seek permission to bury it. In the past, several museums have offered to buy it, but it is against the law to sell or destroy bodies.

Ex-President Is Recovering

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover smoked his favorite pipe today for the first time since undergoing surgery last week, a hospital spokesman said.

The report from Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center said Hoover was taking regular nourishment, although remaining on a soft diet, and all his vital signs are normal. Hoover walked around unassisted in the Harkness Pavilion of the hospital, the report said, and began reading newspapers and messages for the first time since being operated on for an intestinal growth.

'Bonanza' Family Has Changed

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When "Bonanza," NBC's front-running Western, was in the construction stage, its dramatic form was based on a family of heroes—father and three sons.

There was the wise, mature older man. There was the impetuous, fiery son, the boy growing into manhood and the enormous, strong, slow-witted son.

Dan Blocker, the 28 pounds of muscle (who has a master's degree in English and drama who was picked to play Hoss, the brawny one, says that over three years the Cartwright family has imperceptively changed.

"Originally, each one of us was about one-fourth of a character—all together we made the complete hero," he explained. "And each one of us fought to change that—to give each character some depth and meaning."

"I knew that if I played Hoss funny, people would love him but by the end of a year they would be fed up to here with the jerk. He had to be more intelligent—not an oaf, or an idiot or a buffoon. We all had our problems, and as the scripts came along, we tried—and usually succeeded—in getting them rewritten."

By now in television, the multiple hero is the accepted device for spinning weekly yarns. Usually there are two, as in "Wagon Train," where the lead has swung back and forth between the wagonmaster and the scout.

The magic number for the private eye shows is three: "Checkmate" had a trio of personalities, so does "77 Sunset Strip."

Comedy shows usually are set up around a family. The doctors, Casey and Kildare, have their older mentors, Marshal Dillon has Chester, Doc and Kitty. So it goes.

A cluster of featured players is more than a television gimmick—it's a downright necessity in order to give writers of weekly programs flexibility and variety in plotting a year's supply of entertainment and to keep from placing an unbearable burden on one single performer.

Four Denied Admission at the Spa

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Parents of four Negro children seeking desegregation of all-white Jones Elementary School were denied their request Monday by the Hot Springs Board of Education.

Harry B. Howard, president of the board, said the parents were told their requests had come right at the opening of school and would not be in the best interest at this time.

Names of the parents and the four Negro students were not disclosed at the request of the parents, Howard said. The board received the request through the mail last Thursday and apparently reached its decision the following day. This decision was sent through the mail to the parents. Only one class in the resort city is integrated. That is a high school class in mechanics, held off-campus.

Ordeal at Comanche Wells

THE STORY: William Ivey, former detective for the cattle-men's association has been convicted by a jury at Comanche Wells of first degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting of a 12-year-old boy, a shepherd's son. Ivey has been sentenced to hang.

CHAPTER II

The sheriff's office was a small front room on the ground floor of the jail end of the courthouse. It had two desks, one a roll-top, two wooden file cabinets, a swivel chair, several straight chairs, a rack full of rifles, a pot-bellied wood stove which sat gathering dust. The walls were littered with tacked up wanted and reward posters curling at the corners.

One of Ivey's deputy lawyers was there along with Slim and Andy, the other two deputies. Youngblood sat huddled all around and then spoke in a low voice to the sheriff.

"I'm going to run home for supper," Sheriff.

"How about staying here? Magie will bring something in," the sheriff replied. He was a middle-aged man, built like a brick building, who spoke directly to the point.

"Well, I got another reason too, Sheriff. Sort of personal. I really ought to go by home a couple of minutes."

The sheriff was a fair man to work for, in spite of being gruff and direct. He said, "The judge wants to speak to you, Youngblood. Then you can go, but I'd like you to spend the night here if you can."

The bank clerk whom Youngblood had stopped out in the street appeared at the open office door. He still looked frightened. He knocked and came in and spoke to the sheriff. "I'm looking for the judge."

"He's in the building. Wait here if you want to." The sheriff began to talk to the lawyer and the county clerk.

After a few minutes Judge Pendergrass came in through the door to the hall. "Hello, Youngblood," he said. "How's your wife?"

"Hello, Judge. She's fine."

The judge spoke to Andy and Slim, calling them by name. The most noticeable feature of the judge was not his crippled leg, but the remarkable manner in which he could get about. Without a crutch or other aid he walked in great strides, swaying from side to side and up and down, from the shortness of the game leg. He was smaller than his brother, the Mr. Pendergrass, but had the same Roman nose, and the same deep-set eyes, magnified by his brass-rimmed spectacles. There was a difference in the faces, and it came from the fact that the judge's face seemed much alive when he talked, and crowfoot wrinkles showed at the corners of his eyes.

The bank clerk came forward. "Judge, Mr. Pendergrass wants to see you."

"Hello, Peters," the judge said. "What does Stephen want to see me about?"

"Why, that's a private matter, Judge."

The crowfoot marks appeared at the corners of the judge's eyes. "Well, I'm pretty busy right now. Ask Mr. Pendergrass if he'll please come around to my office tomorrow."

"Well, I don't think Mr. Pendergrass would have sent for you if it wasn't important, and if he didn't mean for you to come right away."

The sheriff said, "You want me to throw this fellow out of here, Judge?"

"I guess not," the judge laughed. "Mr. Peters, you work for my brother Stephen, so when

now. Two weeks from now if he quit, I'd figure he was a traitor."

Youngblood was thinking about Lila and not about some supposed loyalty to ranching interests. "I got nothing to hide," he said slowly. "You all know Charlie Moss is my uncle, and he owns the Circle-2, but I don't think you'll find him bucking the law. Funny thing, though." He turned to the sheriff. "I was going to quit you as soon as they turned Ivey loose and things quieted down. I figured to turn in my badge tomorrow or the next day."

The sheriff was surprised. "What's the matter, Youngblood? I figured you was happy as a hog in a mudhole. What's the beef?"

"No beef," he lied. "I worked as rep for Uncle Charlie, and one year I bossed his roundup crew when old Bill Kelsey was sick. Old Bill is getting old to ride all day, and Uncle Charlie figures I can handle the regular foreman's job, so I was going to give it a whirl."

It occurred to Youngblood that the judge could see right through him. How could you say, My wife wants me to quit because the work's too dangerous, and I'm going to do what she wants, because she's going to have a kid and she's scared and she depends on me? Then suddenly it occurred to him as he stared into the deep-set eyes of the little judge that he really didn't have anything to hide. That the judge would back him up, and that he actually had brass enough to say it; except that he didn't want to.

"I'll stay," he said to the sheriff. "I'll do my job."

Sanford Hurls 20th Win as Giants Climb

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jack Sanford didn't stop at 19 this time.

The veteran 33-year-old San Francisco right-hander posted his 20th victory Monday by limiting Los Angeles to eight hits in a 7-3 triumph that moved the second-place Giants to within 2½ games of the National League-leading Dodgers.

Where does 19 fit in? As a boy in Wellesley, Mass., Sanford was engaged in a unique program of violin lessons. When he completed the full 20-lesson course, young Jack was to receive a free violin. He didn't get it. On the day of the 20th lesson, Sanford ducked out to pitch in a sandlot game.

Some years later, as a rookie with Philadelphia in 1957, Sanford was headed for 20 victories when he received an urgent telephone call. It was his mother. She had only one request.

"Please don't stop at 19 this time."

Sanford wound up with a 19-8 mark. But there was no stopping him Monday, as he recorded victory No. 20—his 14th straight—with home run support from Willie Mays and Tom Haller in the opener of the key four-game series.

The Giants' triumph also ended their 10-game losing streak at Los Angeles and represented Sanford's first win since going to the mound against the Dodgers in 15 games.

Meanwhile at Houston, the Colts stayed "break the jinx" night, employing a hex specialist, black cat, witch doctor and Al Capp's little Joe Bel-Jay in an attempt to snap a 15 game losing string to Philadelphia. The Phils didn't cooperate, winning a doubleheader, 3-2 as Art Mahaffey won his 18th, and 5-3.

Elsewhere, third-place Cincinnati shut out Milwaukee 3-0 as Joey Jay won his 21st with a four-hitter, the Chicago Cubs took a pair from St. Louis, 6-2 and 5-2, and Pittsburgh swept the New York Mets 2-0 and 5-4.

In the American League, the first-place New York Yankees defeated third-place Los Angeles 8-2 before the Angels came back to take the nightcap 6-5 to remain 4½ back, while Minnesota's second-place Twins moved to within three games of the top by beating Washington 9-3 and 4-3.

Cleveland took two from the Chicago White Sox 4-3 and 6-5. Detroit whipped Baltimore to end of a twin bill, 1-0 in 10 innings, and 4-1, and Kansas City and Boston split, the A's winning 8-5 before the Red Sox won 3-1.

Mays, who scored the first Giant run in the second inning, propelled San Francisco to the victory with his 42nd homer, a three-run shot off Dodger starter Stan Williams (12-10) in the third inning that broke a 1-1 tie.

Jay (21-11), beating his former Brave teammates for the third time in four tries this season, hurried his fourth shutout while extending Milwaukee's scoreless innings streak to 21. Batterymate John Edwards provided the key hit for the Reds, a two-run homer in the second inning off Bob Hendley (10-11).

The Colts led 2-0 in the first game behind the two-hit pitching of Dick Farrell (9-18) until the eighth when John Callison's homer tied it. A triple by Tony Taylor and Billy Klaus' single in the ninth won it for the Phils and Mahaffey (18-11) who allowed just four hits. In the nightcap, Roy Sievers' two-run triple was the major blow of a four-run third inning outburst that put the game out of Houston's reach. The victory went to Jack Hamilton (8-11) with Hal Woodenshick (5-16) the loser.

Billy Williams drove in three runs with a single and double in the Cubs' first game triumph as Glen Hobbie (5-12) held the Cards scoreless after the second inning to post the victory. Bob Gibson (15-11) was the loser. San Miguel's eighth inning homer gave the Cards a 2-2 tie in the nightcap, but the Cubs came back with three in the ninth to tag Don Ferrarese (1-5) with the loss. Don Cardwell (7-14) was the winner with a seven-hitter.

Bob Friend (16-12) pitched a six-hitter and Dick Groat accounted for both runs with a fifth inning double as the Pirates beat the Mets and Jay Hooks (8-16) in the opener. Elroy Face picked up his 23rd save in the nightcap, stopping a New York rally and preserving the triumph for Al McBean (1-8). McBean drove in what turned out to be the decisive run with a fifth inning single off Roger Craig (7-22).

Twins Close Gap to Three With 2 Wins

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

If Bob Allison is straightening out for the stretch drive, it could prove a big factor in the Minnesota wins' long shot crack at the American League pennant.

The hefty outfielder had one of his most productive afternoons of the year Monday as the Twins swept a doubleheader from the Washington Senators 9-3 and 4-3.

Allison opened up a decisive four-run burst with a second-inning single in the first game and won the second with a three-run homer in the eighth—his fifth hit and second homer of the day.

With the ex-University of Kansas halfback leading the way, the Twins closed to within three games of the front-running New York Yankees, who split with Los Angeles. The Yanks cut loose for five runs in the seventh inning and ran off with the opener 8-2, but the Angels staged a rally of their own in the ninth inning of the second game and won 6-5. The third-place Angels remained 4½ lengths behind New York.

Detroit continued its domination over Baltimore and took over fourth place with twin victories over the Orioles, 1-0 in 10 innings and 4-1; Cleveland edged Chicago twice, 4-3 and 6-5; and Kansas City divided with Boston, the Athletics taking the first game 8-5, and the Red Sox winning the second 3-1.

In the National League San Francisco trimmed Los Angeles 7-3 and climbed to within 2½ games of the first-place Dodgers; Cincinnati blanked Milwaukee 9-0; Philadelphia made it 17 in a row over Houston, 3-2 and 5-3; Pittsburgh swept New York 2-0 and 5-4; and Chicago downed St. Louis twice, 6-2 and 5-2.

The Angels, apparently doomed to a double defeat at Yankee Stadium, got only two hits through seven innings of the second game against Jim Coaker before Albie Pearson put them in the running with a two-run homer in the eighth. Then they erupted in the ninth, pouring across four runs off Coaker and loser Luis Arroyo. George Thomas sent in the winning run with a pinch single after singles by Lee Thomas, Leon Wagner and Leo Burke and a double by Bob Rodgers.

Tom Tresh and Roger Maris hit two-run doubles as the Yankees scored five times in the seventh for their first game victory.

The Tigers have now beaten the Orioles seven straight and hold a 14-2 season edge on Baltimore. Dick Brown delivered the only run of the first game with a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the 10th, giving left-hander Don Mossi his first victory since July 20. Phil Regan won the second with an eight-hitter, getting home run support from Rocky Colavito, Al Kaline and Mike Roark.

The Indians, losers in 10 of 11 previous meetings with the White Sox, nipped Chicago in the opener when Jerry Kindall's bloop single in the ninth cashed in an unearned run. The loss went to Early Wynn, in his fourth try for a 29th career victory. Cleveland ran up a 5-0 lead in the second game and produced the clinching run on Al Luplow's double and Tito Francona's single in the seventh.

AA True to Form, Plays Solid Football

By BILL SIMMONS

True to form, the Class AA schools in action last Friday night played sound, solid football and outdid their Class A foes in all five inter-class games.

But next Friday the games could be more telling. That's when, for the most part, the Class AA teams settle down to hash things out with rivals of equal or greater rank.

All the Class AA teams will be on the football fields next week.

District 2AA

Jonesboro's Golden Hurricane had the feel of the mud and splashed to a 39-0 victory over Walnut Ridge.

The Hurricane took to the air only three times, but tucked up a 26 point lead in the first half while outgaining Walnut Ridge 176 yards to 17.

The District 2AA power got touchdowns from Chuck LaTour-ette, on a seven yard run and a 39-yard punt return, and from Tommy Snow, Bobby Hutchison, John Hafner and Jim Goad.

Andy Hooper kicked two extra points and Tommy Sain, a 210-pound tackle, bolstered the line for Jonesboro.

In another 2AA game, West Memphis nipped Marianna, 7-6, at Marianna. Halfback Tommy Spencer set up West Memphis' touchdown with a 40-yard dash to the five, and quarterback Dwight Evans sprinted in from there.

Mike Wilf kicked the decisive extra point for the Blue Devils.

Fullback John Rose hit off tackle for two yards and Marianna's score in the third period and the conversion attempt was wide.

District 3AA

Five District 3AA teams saw action, with Mabelvale blasting Bryant, the only non-Class AA team involved in the three games.

Mabelvale bombed the Hornets 25-0, Jacksonville drubbed Sylvan Hills, 26-0, and Benton spoiled Searcy's district debut, 20-6. Three men accounted for seven touchdowns for the District 3AA victors.

Donnie Cox rattled off three for Jacksonville, big Alvin Jones got three for Benton, including one 66-yard punt return for a touchdown.
